PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION PROGRAM

http://eng.jhu.edu/wse/cle

Strong communications skills are the key to success in any discipline. The Professional Communication Program (PCP) offers Johns Hopkins undergraduates a variety of hands-on courses designed to develop their abilities to research, write, speak, and display data persuasively. Starting with the highly popular foundation courses EN.661.110 Professional Writing and Communication and EN.661.150 Oral Presentations, the program expands to specialized workshops and seminars on topics ranging from science and research writing, engineering culture and ethics to entrepreneurship, public relations and social media. PCP students create journals, write blogs, present pitches and posters, and conduct multimedia PR campaigns. All PCP courses are small—19 or fewer students—ensuring that everyone receives the skilled attention necessary to grow as a writer and presenter. Since many of our students are international, PCP offers English as a Second Language (ESL) sections of Professional Writing and Communication and Oral Presentations as well as free ESL tutoring.

For current faculty and contact information go to http://eng.jhu.edu/wse/cle/page/our_people

Faculty
Program Director
Julie Reiser
Senior Lecturer, Director of Marketing and Communications: technical communication, oral presentations, research writing, dissertation writing, American literature and critical theory.

Full Time Faculty
Bob Graham
Lecturer: entrepreneurship, professional communications, oral presentations.

Leslie Kendrick
Senior Lecturer: marketing strategy, integrated marketing communications, sports marketing, international marketing.

Charlotte O'Donnell
Lecturer: oral presentations, professional communication, visual rhetoric.

Eric Rice
Senior Lecturer & Director of Graduate Programs: organizational behavior, social entrepreneurship, management, negotiation and conflict management, leadership, public speaking, professional writing.

Pamela Sheff
Director of Center for Leadership Education and Director of Master of Science in Engineering Management Program: business and technical communication, marketing, public relations, science and scientific writing, oral presentations, higher education in prisons, community-based learning, entrepreneurship.

Part Time Faculty
Jennifer Bernstein
Lecturer: professional communication.

Laura Davis